The Practice plc is a (private) primary care company providing innovative community based healthcare for the NHS. It is one of the UK's leading providers of primary care services and delivers specialist clinical services to GPs and PCTs. We work closely alongside the commissioning body to ensure that the best possible service is found for all stakeholders and are passionate about providing the best patient care.

The Practice has an established track record of delivering medical training and education. Our training portfolio includes GP specialist training, foundation doctors and medical students.

Our medical training programmes are an integral part of The Practice Academy, created to reflect the passion and commitment we have for developing our people and to represent activities that take place under the banner of training and development.

Our regional GP trainers works as part of a team of experienced GP training leads, who take an innovative approach to the opportunities and challenges of developing a fit for purpose medical workforce for the modern NHS. In addition to using teaching and training skills, the role involves an ability to develop strategy and lead primary care teams. Each regional GP trainer will be responsible for their own defined area and a specified number of GP surgeries and GP led health centres.

Key Duties of the Regional Trainer include:

- Strategy development in partnership with the head of training and regional trainers, to maximise the scope and scale of medical training under the brand of The Practice Academy
- Work with clinical leads and operational leads to achieve and maintain training status at a practice or locality level
- Carry out an appropriate level of clinical work to maintain trainer status
- Maintain a personal educational development plan and a locality trainer status
- Implement a comprehensive educational curriculum, maximising the learning opportunities at a practice, regional and organisational level
- Provide educational supervision for each trainee within the region
- Support clinical supervisors in delivering training excellence in a multi-learner environment
- Liaise with local Deanery, PCT and Acute trust training leads as required
